Health District to Hold Informational Display about Radon in Local Libraries

The Central Connecticut Health District will be holding informational displays at local libraries about the importance of radon testing in the home. These displays will include free information and materials about how to keep your family, pets and home safe from the dangers of radon, as well as free radon test kits provided from the Connecticut Department of Public Health (DPH).

According to the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), exposure to radon is the second leading cause of lung cancer in the United States and the number one cause among non-smokers.

Informational displays will be held at the following libraries:
